

FEAST FOR THE EYES

Lyrics and music: Javier López del Carril

A feast just to think of you, so real
with your heavenly body.

Think of all you want to see,
you can be, or undo,
without thinking of luck.

Like in sunny weather,
deciphering sorrows,
so much looking for its flower in the big city,
in the big city...

I know, something comes back unchained
and suddenly attacks without thinking.
I know that my clouds are eternal,
that the density of the sea has the power...

Feast for the eyes...